2 O'CLOCK.

HOTTER FIRE
FOR WILLIAMS.

Goff Expected to Probe the Inspector a Little Deeper To-Day.

HIS DEFENSE IS DENIALS.

Despite the Storm the Crowd at the Hearing Is as Great as Ever.

BROOKLYN REFORMERS ATTEND.

They Come to Get Points for an Inquiry into the City of Churches' Affairs.

NO ADMITTANCE WITHOUT A PASS.

THE ENTRANCE TO THE COMMITTEE-ROOM WAS AS GREAT AS EVER.

The opportunity of seeing Williams again under fire was an attraction to curiosity-seekers too strong to be resisted, and they came out in droves, eager to obtain even a standing place in the Committee room.

Although the wily police official succeeded yesterday in eluding the pitfalls that had been prepared for him by Chief Inspector Goff, and took refuge in a sweeping and general denial of the charges which had been made against him, it was generally believed that his examination then had only laid the foundation for a more detailed and careful inquiry into his official career, and that Mr. Goff was prepared to put the probe in a little deeper when he got the inspector on the stand to-day.

Williams' "Nest Egg."

Inspector Williams had told very glibly how he had a little nest egg of about $20,000 when he was appointed to the police force at the age of twenty-four, which he had accumulated in the ship carpentering business at Shanghai and Hong Kong, but he was not called upon to explain how he had managed to get together such a handsome fortune for such a young man.

Something in the line of a Fort Arthur massacre was looked for this morning when Mr. Goff, after a good night's rest, should make his appearance for the second round with the inspector.

The fact that the witness with the exception of Williams had been excused yesterday when he was put upon the stand seemed to indicate that Mr. Goff expected to make a long fight of it.

All those witnesses, including the captains, ex-captains and a dozen or more police men, were on hand again this morning in response to their subpoenas, and at the disposal of Mr. Goff and the Committee.

Brooklyn Reformers in Force.

Among the earliest arrivals at the Committee's headquarters were Dr.
Lyman Abbott and a contingent of Brooklyn reformers.

They expect to start the ball rolling over the bridge, it is said, before long, and this is a good time to get points now that Mr. Goff is going up so near the top.

Inspector Williams was on time. He came in shortly after 10.30, and sauntered leisurely over to his corner, puffing at a big cigar of the finest Tenderlohn brand. He did not seem to be at all worried or anxious over the ordeal which everyone believed awaited him, and had an air of confidence and indifference to the curiosity which his appearance excited which he took no pains to conceal.

Senators Bradley and Robertson had arrived, and he went right up to them and shook hands very cordially and began to chat and joke with them, just as if he were only to be a spectator at the proceedings instead of the star witness of the day.

Two Days More for Goff.

Mr. Goff has said that he will end his connection with the Lexow Committee as its chief cross-examiner tomorrow night, and it was generally believed that the Committee would endeavor to crowd an immense amount of work into the two days which remain before the adjournment for the year will be taken.

Many Had to Leave.

It was said that a host of friends of Inspector Williams had come down this morning to listen to his testimony, and encourage him while under the fire of Mr. Goff's guns. At any rate the Committee-room was packed before 11 o'clock, when the Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms made the announcement that all who had not subpoenas with them would have to leave the room.

A score or more people were turned out, after much grumbling and kicking, but it hardly made a perceptible difference upon the crowd, for the places they left were immediately taken possession of by others.

How the Committee can get through with Inspector Williams as well as examine Supt. Byrnes and Inspector Mc-Avoy and all the other witnesses who are held in reserve by to-morrow evening was a problem that puzzled many, but the counsel for the Committee were as mysterious and uncommunicative as ever, and nothing could be definitely learned of their plans.

Chairman Lexow came in with Mr.
Goff a few minutes after 11 o'clock, and began his preparations for the day's work by consultation with all the counsel, Senator O'Connor and Founds were also present.

CULLOM AND HIS FENCES.

Going Home to Work for Re-election to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Senator Cullom leaves for Illinois to-day. He makes no secret of the fact that his trip is for the purpose of looking after his re-election to the Senate. He expects to refrain away at least until after the Republican members of the Legislature hold their caucus for the selection of a Senatorial candidate, but probably will not delay his return until the election, as he confidently expects the caucus to decide the matter. The Legislature meets on Jan. 8, and the Senator expects the caucus to be held soon after that date.

There are 125 Republican members in the Legislature in joint session, and 83 will not say whether Mr. Cul-lom's vote, but he is not disposed to allow himself to discuss the outlook at great length. He says that at the pres-

CARTER IN THE TOMBS

The Latest Bank Defaulter Hopes to Escape Punishment.

He Says He Has Rebbed the Bank of Commerce for 20 Years.

His Shortage So Far Is Known to Reach $28,000.

While Edward R. Carter, transfer and coupon clerk of the National Bank of Commerce, Nassau and Cedar streets, who admits having swindled the bank out of $28,000, occupied a cell in Police Headquarters last night and this morning, awaiting arraignment in the Tombs Police Court at 2 P. M., President Sherman, half a dozen directors and the Bank's counsel, Mr.
Stillman, were discussing the question, "How did he do it and how long was he at it?"

The last part of the question Carter has answered himself. In a confession or conversation with Inspector Mc-Laughlin after his arrest, he said he had been stealing for nearly twenty years.

He entered the Bank of Commerce as a messenger, twenty-nine years ago, and a few years later was promoted to junior clerk. His admission is that almost dating from his promotion he began to steal.

According to the statement made yesterday by President Sherman, the latter had discovered a shortage of over $28,- 000, which had taken place during the past two years. If, however, Carter had been stealing for twenty years at the same rate, then it is impossible to say what figure the total embezzlement will reach.

Experts have been put upon the books of the bank, and a full investigation will be made covering a period of thirty years. The result will not be known for two or three weeks.

"Of course, I cannot tell what this investigation will disclose," said President Sherman, "but I will not offer any opinion as to what I believe $28,000 will cover everything. I will not say whether Mr. Cullom only represents two years' stealings, or how far we have got with it. I do not know what may be unfolded."

The reporter pointed out Carter's admission that he had begun his stealing over twenty years ago. Such being the case, the President was asked why the defaulter was not discovered sooner.

"As to that," was the reply, "I can say nothing. It is one of the very problems upon which we are working. In spite of his alleged confession I believe his shortage will not exceed $30,000."

While in a cell at Police Headquarters last night Carter was approached by Sergeant Killian, a quiet, unassuming man with him. The defaulting clerk, however, would make no admissions beyond what he had told the inspector. He did, however, make a remarkable statement.

It was to the effect that he did not believe the world would prosecute or punish him; that they would be lenient with him on account of his wife and two children. His daughter had been with him an hour before, and she had just come from President Sherman. Apparently, he had hopes upon what his daughter had said.

"When questioned this morning in the presence of the bank's counsel Mr.
Sherman was inclined to be reticent.
"Carter had been asked to make such a statement for the bank," Mr. Stillman interposed.

"Of course he had not," commented the bank president.

"Well, will you state positively whether you will prosecute or not?" Mr.
Sherman was asked.

"No, I will not make any such statement. I will leave that to the law. I know nothing of the full story. The stupation is that we will prosecute. It is not for me to say whether or not we see me last night, but she made no plea for mercy. She asked me where her father was, and I told her at Police Headquarters."

Then she went up to see him. So far as we can find out no one else was implicated with him in the stealings.

Even if we do not prosecute ourselves it is my opinion that the United States District-Attorney will take up the matter, as this is a National bank. I do know that our lawyer, Mr. Stillman, will be in the Tombs Court to-day to prosecute."

President Sherman was indignant at some of the stories published in the morning papers, but he said he would not say anything about them. He said that this might have an effect upon the man turning thief.

"For a man in Carter's position," Mr.
Sherman said, "he enjoyed a good salary. He got $1,000 a year from the bank."

His salary was more than sufficient for all his wants. His family was small, and he had no vice, nor did he live in anything that might be called style."

If Carter had been stealing for twenty years at the rate of $28,000 to $30,000 a year, then, indeed, the question, "What did he do with it?" becomes interesting.
If, however, the amount named represents all his stealings, taken in dribbles, it is easy to imagine how he could have spent it. It would only represent a little over $1,000 a year, and this he could easily have got rid of, particularly as he has enjoyed the $1,000 a year salary only a few years.

As to what he did with the money, or the full amount of his defalcations, Carter refused to say. He said he would Inspector McLaughlin tried again this morning to get a full confession. Carter refused to speak on the subject until after he had seen his counsel.

Carter was not a member of any social organization, save a bowling club, and the Royal Arcanum. So far as can be ascertained he was devotedly attached to his wife and two children, who are interested in church work.

The defalcation will not in any manner affect the bank, which is a solid institution of the country. It is not a question of $28,000, but a million and undivided profits of half a million more. There was no excitement at the bank to-day. The only saving was dropped in to hear the particulars of Carter's crime.

The officers of the bank are William M. Sherman, President; William C. Duvall, cashier, and Warren C. French, Jr., vice-cashier. The directors are William Libbey, Frederick Sturgis, Charles Lover, Charles H. Russell, Albert E. Orr, John S. Kennedy and Woodbury Langdon.

ROBBED OR "BROKE?" SIFTING THE DIVVER CASE.

Dominick McCaffrey Found Helpless in the Street.

Covered with Snow, He Lay on a Park Row Stoop.

His Condition Believed to Be Due to Over-Indulgence.

Dominick McCaffrey, the heavy-weight pugilist, and formerly boxing instructor of the Manhattan Athletic Club, was found this morning for intoxication.
"Dom" was found by Policeman Mc-Grath, of the City Hall squad, sitting on a Park Row stoop last night, covered with snow, and "unable to take care of himself." When arraigned before Justice Ryan at the Tombs Court this morning he was "broke," and had to go downstairs to the prison.

Edward W. Searing, a lawyer of 119 Nassau street, and member of Good Government Club "P," has been called into the case against Police Justice Div-ver by District-Attorney Fellows. Mr.
Searing called upon the District-Attorney yesterday, at the latter's request.
Poor Lawyer Hale, in his frantic endeavors to find evidence against the Justice, had previously seen Mr.
Searing, but he would not talk to Mr.
Hale about the case, although Mr. Searing was better equipped on the subject, perhaps, than any man in the city.

It was Mr. Searing who prepared the cases and gathered all the evidence, upon which ex-Assistant District-Attorney Wellman appeared as prosecutor, when last Winter he secured convictions in election cases in which some of Divver's henchmen were defendants.
Mr. Searing was paid by District-Attorney Fellows for this work out of the fund at his disposal for such purposes.
When Col. Fellows was requested to look into the case against Divver, naturally he turned to a lawyer whom he had paid to collect evidence, and who was well qualified to put the investigation into Divver's actions on the right track.

Col. Fellows had only a brief interview with Mr. Searing yesterday, but made an engagement with him for today. At the same time Lawyer Hale will be on hand. Col. Fellows will go over what evidence Lawyer Hale has, and decide which of the subpoenas shall be served. While Col. Fellows will not express an opinion of the case against Divver, he will make a thorough investigation of the matter to determine just what his future action shall be.

It will probably be decided at the conference to-day whether Col. Fellows will take up the case and push it with vigor.
It will depend upon what Mr. Searing has to say, as it is known that the District-Attorney looks upon Mr. Hale's work thus far as without much value.

Eleven Postal Clerks Dropped.

Eleven employees in the money order department have been notified by Supt.
Elliott that they had been dropped from the pay-roll. Their names are: William Gapping, thirty years in the service; Charles Koster, five years in the service;
A. Olson, twenty-five years in the service; Richard Fulton, twenty-two years in the service; Thomas Jardine, jr., thirty years in the service; James Gray, bookkeeper of the department, twenty years in the service; L. V. Mc-Govern, two years in the service; James O'Rourke, four years in the service; James Lawrence, five years in the service, and two others whose names could not be ascertained.

Weather Forecast.

The weather forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 5 P. M. to-morrow, is as follows: Rain or snow, followed by clearing weather during to-day; fair on Friday, and Saturday decidedly clear, with a cold wave. The temperature will fall about twenty degrees by Friday morning; high northwest winds.

The forecast for the morning hours, as indicated by the thermometer at Perry's pharmacy, is as follows: 34 A. M. to 35 A.
